Pressure area care – pressure ulcers

A pressure ulcer is damage to the skin and the deeper tissue. Pressure ulcers are sometimes known as “pressure sores” or “bed sores”. Anyone can develop a pressure ulcer. Some people are more at risk than others.

Pressure ulcers can develop very quickly. In people who are at high risk a pressure ulcer can develop within a few hours.

One of the best ways to prevent a pressure ulcer is to reduce or relieve pressure by moving. Nurses will prompt patients about repositioning regularly usually every 2-4 hours or ask patients to stand or have a small walk to relieve pressure.

Further Information is available please ask a member of staff.
